2nd International Conference business and municipality - new partnerships for the 21st century creating better cities, to gether, april 4th - 7th 2001 in bremen/germany

Patron of the conference: Chancellor of the Federal Republic of Germany, Gerhard Schröder

Languages

Simultaneous translation in English, German. Spanish and French for plenary and round table sessions

Workshops in English only but individual help in the above mentioned languages possible

Conference Programme

An agenda-shaping event for decision makers in sustainable businesses and dynamic cities on three levels:

- 1. policy-making + strategic
- 2. competence-building + operational
- 3. venture-launching + networking

Based on the competition for the bremen partnership award with more than 150 applied projects we show how to tackle today's problems with concrete solutions. The workshop design covers the whole range of cities' demands.

Plenary sessions, roundtable discussions, workshops and free time are designed around a double-cascading structure, as follows:

Plenary sessions focussing on the policy-making and strategic levels will address issues such as:

- how to position the urban dimension in the attention of national governments and international institutions?
- how to build coalitions of city/business interests that are good for new business and add to citizens' quality of life?

Roundtable discussions will relate the themes of the plenary sessions to the intelligence being distilled from the workshops. The roundtables' principal aims are to communicate the hands-on experience and needs of entrepreneurs and city officials to policy-makers, stimulate thinking about new strategies and policies and to test new policy options.

Workshops and the free-time sessions fit around the second and third levels: they will enable experiences, from a vast array of business-municipality partnerships from around the world, to be exchanged, and encourage new ventures to be imagined, horizontally across countries and regions and vertically across businesses and municipalities.
